Yes, this is a ThinkPad.®
With a 486DX4 100MHz
processor for increased performance. But you can't judge this notebook
just by its cover.

Begin by removing the screen back of the ThinkPad. You'll find you've just revealed
an integrated LCD panel.
Pretty nifty, huh?

LCD panel on an overhead projector. Soon you'll be ready to begin casting your presentation onto the big screen.

Just use the wireless
infrared remote control to advance your presentation and create special effects.
That way, you're free
to work the room.

Introducing the notebook that can turn your computer presentations into something big.
